REPORT

TO HER

RIGHT HON. LORD BALFOUR OF BURLEIGH, K.T.,

His Majesty's Secretary for Scotland.

CENSUS OFFICE, EDINBURGH

31st July, 1902.

MY LORD,

WE have the honour to submit the following Report on the Census of Scotland taken in obedience to the provisions of the Act 63 Vict. cap. 4, entitled "An Act for taking the Census of Great Britain in the year one thousand nine hundred and one," together with an Appendix of tabular results, in order that they may be laid before both Houses of Parliament.

The methods adopted in obtaining the Returns for the Census 1901 being essentially the same as those employed in the taking of the Census on the four previous occasions, but little need be said on those points, a short description only being given to indicate the nature of the authority on which the statements to be made is founded.

Each Local Registrar throughout the country was in the first instance directed to divide his district into convenient Enumeration Districts, and to assist him in this, the plan of division for each Enumeration District in 1891 pertaining to him was sent as a guide.

He had to appoint for each district a suitable Enumerator, instructing them as to their duties, and having a preliminary control of their work, but at the same time subject to the approval of the Sheriffs of Counties and of the Chief Magistrates of the following eight Towns:—Glasgow, Edinburgh, Dundee, Aberdeen, Paisley, Leith, Greenock and Perth.

Each Enumerator was required to be intelligent, trustworthy, and active, to be able to write well, and have some knowledge of arithmetic, to be in such health as to enable him to undergo the requisite exertion, not younger than 18 years of age nor older than 65, and to be temperate, orderly, and respectable.

The Governor, Master, or Chief Resident Officer of every Prison, Pothouse, Hospital, or Lunatic Asylum, and of every Public or Charitable Institution in which upwards of 100 persons usually resided was appointed Enumerator of the same, and also the Barrack Master or Quarter-Master in Barracks containing a like number of soldiers.

The Enumerators were carefully to ascertain the number of persons not dwelling in any house but living in the open air, or sleeping in tents, caravans, sheds, barns, &c., and also of those living in canal boats and barges in inland waters.

Each Enumerator in the course of the week commencing March 25, 1901, left at every dwelling house within his district a Schedule as prepared under the direction of the Secretary for Scotland for the occupier or occupiers thereof, to be filled up by the same, giving particulars showing the name, sex, age, profession or occupation, condition as to marriage, relation to head of family, birth-place, and (where the person was born abroad) nationality of every living person who abode in every house on the night of the Census day; and whether any person who so abode was blind or deaf and dumb, or imbecile or lunatic; and whether any person who so abode (being of three years of age or upwards) speaks English only or Gaelic only, or both English and Gaelic.

The following were the cases in which one Occupier's Schedule was left: (a) For the head of a family* occupying the whole or part of a house. (b) For a Lodger (with or without family) separately occupying a room or rooms, and not boarding with any family in the house. (c) For each separate Occupier (with or without family) of a room or rooms, in a Block of Model Buildings and Flats. (d) For the Innate of an Almshouse or of a Porter's Lodge, &c., for the Resident Officer of a Public Building, and for a Caretaker of a place of business or of a house to let. (e) For an outdoor Servant (with or without family) living in any building belonging to a House or Mansion, but detached therefrom, such as a Lodge, Gardener's Cottage, or Dwelling Rooms over a Coach-house or Stable. But a Servant boarding in his master's house did not receive a separate Schedule, but was included in his master's Schedule, with any other Servants of the family, even although he slept in a detached building. (f) For the resident Manager or Proprietor of an Inn or Hotel. This Schedule included persons staying in the Inn or Hotel on the night of Sunday, 31st March, whether members of the Manager's or Proprietor's family, Visitors, or Servants. Any person travelling on the night of Sunday, 31st March, who arrived at the Hotel or Inn on the morning of Monday, 1st April, was included in the Schedule for that Hotel, unless he had already been enumerated elsewhere. (g) For the resident Proprietor, Manager, Superintendent, or Deputy of a Licensed or Common Lodging House, who included in the Schedule himself and his family (if there resident) and all the Lodgers who were in the house on the night of Sunday, 31st March. (h) For the resident Proprietor, Manager, or Head of a Business Establishment or of a School. The Schedule included all persons staying in the Establishment or School on the night of Sunday, 31st March, whether members of the Proprietor's or Manager's family, or his Assistants, Scholars, or Servants.

Definition of the term "House."

A Separate House was reckoned—every dwelling (1) with a distinct Outside Entrance from a street, court, lane, road, &c.; or (2) with a door opening directly into a Common Stair or Passage; but if any such dwelling is subdivided and occupied by different families, it must be reckoned as only one house, and are to be carefully distinguished as inhabited, uninhabited, and building.

Procedure as to collecting Schedules.

The Enumerator collected the Schedules after seeing each was properly filled up (doing so himself when necessary), on Monday, April 1st, 1901, adding thereto the number of windowed rooms in each house, and copied all the particulars into the Enumeration Books, which, with the Schedules and other documents were handed to the Local Registrars who, after revising the work of the Enumerators, prepared summaries of each District. These summaries, together with all the Enumeration and Memorandum Books, were sent to the Sheriffs of Counties and to the Chief Magistrates of the above-mentioned eight towns, and after being examined and approved by them were forwarded to the Registrar General in Edinburgh.

Number of Registrars and Enumerators.

In all 1072 Registrars and 8988 Enumerators were employed in the work.

Divisions into which the country is divided.

The country is divided in various manners:—into Counties—Civil, Registration, Parliamentary and School Board; into Civil and Ecclesiastical Parishes; into Town, Village, and Rural Districts; into Parliamentary Divisions of Counties, Parliamentary Burghs, and Districts of Burghs; into Burghs—Royal, Municipal and Police; into Wards of Burghs; into Public Health Areas in accordance with the provisions of the Public Health Acts, the Inhabited Islands being also given with the County and Parish in which each is situated. The information upon which these are obtained is furnished by the Local Registrars throughout Scotland, whose attention was specially directed to take great care that in each division the precise boundaries of every local subdivision wholly or partly within it be clearly marked in the Enumeration Book. The delimiting of the Ecclesiastical Parishes was accomplished with much difficulty owing to changes made upon the boundaries of Parishes by order of the Boundary Commission and Secretary for Scotland, and was the cause of much correspondence and enquiry. Civil and Registration Counties are now from adjustments made by order of Boundary Commission and Secretary for Scotland in most cases identical as to their boundaries, the difference between them being seen in Table II., p. 180.

*Note.—A Family was held to include a Man, and his Wife and Children (if any), also any Relatives, Visitors, Servants, and persons boarding with the family, and residing together under one roof.

Of the total 881 Parishes in Scotland the boundaries of 287 were affected by the orders of the Boundary Commission appointed by the Local Government (Scotland) Act 1889. Those Parishes are indicated by an asterisk in Table I. (which deals with Civil Counties and Parishes) pp. 4-19. Since the completion of the work of the Boundary Commission similar changes have been made in 78 Parishes by order of the Secretary for Scotland, those being marked by a dagger.

The Schedules containing information as to the number of persons sleeping on board vessels either of the Royal Navy or of the Mercantile Marine in the various Harbours, Docks, and Roadsteads in Scotland, as also who were sailing in Scottish waters on the night of the Census, the returns of which are not obtained by the Registrars, were collected and forwarded to this Office in the one case through the Board of the Admiralty, and in the other by the Registrar General of Shipping and Seamen, the Schedules of the latter being collected by the Officers of H.M. Customs at the various ports of the United Kingdom.

We would indicate our obligation to those departments, as also to the Registrar General of England and of Ireland, and the Local Government Board of Scotland, for any assistance which might be required for the elucidation of any point it was necessary to obtain information upon in connection with the Census. For the acreage of Counties, Parishes, and Burghs we are indebted, through the Board of Agriculture, to the Ordnance Survey Department at Southampton.

PRELIMINARY REPORT SUPERSEDED.

On 13th June, 1901, we had the honour to transmit to your Lordship for presentation to Parliament a Preliminary or an Interim Report, giving the number of the population enumerated on 31st day of March. This Report was founded upon the information afforded by the Registrars throughout Scotland in their summaries, sent to this Office as soon as possible after completion. After examination and scrutiny of the Enumeration Books, Shipping Schedules, &c., it is found the difference between the two totals is but a small one of 103.

PLAN OF PUBLICATION OF ABSTRACTS IN VOL. I.

The general arrangement of these Abstracts does not differ materially from what it has been at former Censuses, but some additions have been made on the present occasion with, it is trusted, the result of affording further information regarding the population. The chief of these are:—A Table is introduced in which the Families, Houses, and Population (male and female), and Total; the Gaelic-speaking, on this occasion above 3 years of age only; Rooms with Windows, &c., in each Civil Parish as a whole are given; and, for convenience and comparison, the more important corresponding points at the 1891 Census. In the Table of Parliamentary Burghs, Districts of Burghs, and Counties, a comparative statement of the same for 1891 is added, and the difference between Parliamentary and Civil Counties is explained, the elucidation of which required much labour. The various facts regarding the population of Public Health areas, as instituted for the purposes of the several Public Health Acts for County Districts and Burghs, is given. The various classes of Institutions are separated, and the particulars relative to each are made under its own heading. In the case of Royal, Police, or Municipal Burghs a comparison is now given for each at the two Censuses 1891 and 1901. The number of Blind, Deaf and Dumb, and Lunatics is shown as they occur in each County. Additional information as to Families and Windowed Rooms is given on this occasion for Burghal and Extra Burghal Groups in each County, for Town, Village, and Rural Groups in each County, and for 15 Towns, each with a population of 30,000 and over.

Alterations in Householders
Schedule.

The information required in the Householders Schedule on the present occasion differs in a few particulars from that asked for at the 1891 Census, viz., under the heading of Profession or Occupation those engaged in such should state in addition to whether "An Employer," "A Worker," or "Working on own account," if the trade or industry is carried on "At Home." Again, with reference to Gaelic speaking, a limit to age is put, viz., three years and upwards; when born in a foreign country one is asked to state whether, at the time of filling up the Schedule, he or she is a Foreign "Subject"; and under the heading of Infirmary the term "Idiot" is omitted.

POPULATION OF SCOTLAND.

Upon the 31st day of March 1901 (the Eleventh Census), the Population of Scotland, as determined by enumeration of the same, was found to be 4,472,103—<sup>Increase of Population.</sup> the males, 2,173,755; the females, 2,298,348. At the date of the previous taking of the Census, the Population was 4,025,647—the males, 1,942,717; the females, 2,082,930; thus giving a total increase of 446,456 persons, 281,008 being of the male sex and 215,418 of the female. The rate of increase is, for the sexes combined, 11·09 per cent.; that for the males alone being 11·89 per cent. and for the females 10·34 per cent. This rate of increase, as seen from Appendix Table I., is greater by 3·32 per cent. than was the rate at last Census, when it was 7·77 per cent.; the male rate of increase at that date being 7·96 per cent. and the female 7·58 per cent. The rate of increase at the present Census is higher than any since 1831 when it was 13·04 per cent., the male increase then being at the rate of 13·41 per cent. and the female 12·71 per cent. Appendix, Table V.

As always the case, the increase of a Population during any period is determined by two factors, the one being the excess of births over deaths during the time considered, which is the natural increment of the Population; the other depending upon the number of persons who may have left the country for other parts, i.e. Emigrants; with, at the same time, a knowledge of those who have come into the country for residence there or who may be temporarily present at the time of the taking of the Census of the Inhabitants, i.e. Immigrants.

From the Reports of the Registrar-General it is shown that in Scotland during the intercensal period, 1891-1901, there were registered

	1,270,498 Births
and	780,703 Deaths
Which leaves an Excess of Births over Deaths	489,795 Persons.
The real increase of the Population as enumerated, however, is	446,456 Persons.
	43,339 Persons, which may be looked upon as a loss by Emigrants over Immigrants.

Not having sufficiently exact information as to the number of those Emigrating from Scotland during the last ten years, and still less as to those who entered the country as Immigrants during the same period, little use is made of such numbers, it being considered best that facts alone should be dealt with in a Census. Table X. Appendix gives the number of Emigrants from Great Britain and Ireland during the intercensal period. <sup>Emigration Returns sparingly used.</sup>

From the figures given in Table I. Appendix, it may be calculated that should the present rate of Increase of the Population during the past decennium uniformly continue the Population of Scotland will double itself in the course of nearly 66 years. <sup>Doubling period.</sup>

Scotland is composed of 33 Counties which are again, in accordance with their geographical position, grouped into Eight Divisions:—viz., I., The Northern Division, which includes the Counties of Shetland, Orkney, Caithness, and Sutherland; II., North-Western Division, composed of Ross and Cromarty and Inverness; III., North-Eastern Division, made up of Nairn, Elgin, Banff, Aberdeen, and Kincardine; IV., East-Midland Division, including Forfar, Perth, Fife, Kinross, and Clackmannan; V., West-Midland Division with Stirling, Dumbarton, Argyll, and Bute; VI., South-Western Division—Renfrew, Ayr, and Lanark; VII., South-Eastern Division—Linlithgow, Edinburgh, Haddington, Berwick, Peebles, and Selkirk; VII., Southern Division—made up of Roxburgh, Dumfries, Kirkcudbright, and Wigtown.

Appendix Table XX. indicates the exact Increase or Decrease of Population in each of those Divisions, and Table XXI. gives the rate of the same. In three of the Eight Geographical Divisions there is a falling off of Population since 1891. The Divisions thus falling are the Northern, the North-Western, and the Southern. In the Northern Division the Decrease indicated by the present Census numbers is at the rate of 5·13 per cent. In the North-Western Division <sup>Increase and Decrease of Population in Divisions.</sup>

the Decrease is 1·36 per cent., and in the Southern Division it is 5·08 per cent. On the other hand the Increase in the North-Eastern Division at 1901 is at the rate of 6·25 per cent. In the East-Midland Division the rate of Increase is 5·57 per cent.; in the West-Midland it is 12·98 per cent.; in the South-Western the increase is at the rate of 19·17 per cent.; and in the South-Eastern the rate is 10·55 per cent.

In the case of the Counties it appears that at the present Census 15 indicated a falling off in Population between 1891 and 1901, the other 18 showing an increase.

The 15 Counties which show a decrease of population are:—Inverness, to the extent of only 0·02 per cent.; Banff, 0·32 per cent.; Argyll, 0·60 per cent.; Kirkcubright, 1·51 per cent.; Shetland, 1·90 per cent.; Sutherland, 2·08 per cent.; Dumfries, 2·25 per cent.; Ross and Cromarty, 2·89 per cent.; Clackmannan, 3·35 per cent.; Berwick, 4·54 per cent.; Orkney, 5·76 per cent.; Roxburgh, 8·78 per cent.; Caithness, 8·90 per cent.; Wigtown, 9·36 per cent.; and Selkirk, 15·78 per cent.

The 18 Counties showing an increase of population are:—Perth, with a rate of 0·90 per cent.; Nairn, 1·49 per cent.; Bute, 2·08 per cent.; Peebles, 2·14 per cent.; Forfar, 2·29 per cent.; Elgin, 3·06 per cent.; Haddington, 3·45 per cent.; Kinross, 4·62 per cent.; Aberdeen, 7·18 per cent.; Ayr, 12·40 per cent.; Edinburgh, 12·55 per cent.; Fife, 14·96 per cent.; Kincardine, 15·30 per cent.; Dumbarrow, 16·17 per cent.; Renfrew, 16·54 per cent.; Stirling, 20·56 per cent.; Lanark, 21·11 per cent.; and Linlithgow, 24·45 per cent. The total increase of the population during the ten years 1891-1901 being 446,456.

In the case of the males alone there has been a decline in the number of inhabitants in 12 Counties since 1891, viz.:—of 0·32 per cent. in Argyll; of 0·64 per cent. in Banff; of 0·79 per cent. in Kirkcubright; of 1·54 per cent. in Dumfries; of 1·90 per cent. in Orkney; of 2·75 per cent. in Ross and Cromarty; of 4·04 per cent. in Clackmannan; of 4·28 per cent. in Berwick; of 8·01 per cent. in Caithness; of 10·03 per cent. in Wigtown; of 10·25 per cent. in Roxburgh; and of 17·32 per cent. in Selkirk.

In the case of the females alone in 15 Counties a declining population is indicated at 1901, viz.:—in Banff of 0·02 per cent.; in Inverness of 0·42 per cent.; in Argyll of 0·87 per cent.; in Kirkcubright of 2·15 per cent.; in Clackmannan of 2·73 per cent.; in Dumfries of 2·89 per cent.; in Ross and Cromarty of 3·02 per cent.; in Sutherland of 4·40 per cent.; in Shetland of 4·65 per cent.; in Berwick of 4·78 per cent.; in Roxburgh of 7·50 per cent.; in Wigtown of 8·77 per cent.; in Orkney of 9·18 per cent.; in Caithness of 9·08 per cent.; and in Selkirk of 14·32 per cent.

As in Scotland, a not inconsiderable number of the population reside on the numerous Islands of various sizes which are scattered chiefly to the West and North of the Mainland, the inhabitants may be divided into two Groups, viz.:—those living on the Mainland, and those living on the Islands. At the Census the former, or Mainland, population in all number 4,316,551—Males, 2,100,477; Females, 2,216,074; the latter, or Insular, population 155,552 persons—Males, 78,278; Females, 82,274. The corresponding populations at the 1891 Census were:—on the Mainland, 3,865,748 souls—Males, 1,868,667; Females, 1,997,081; and on the Islands, 159,899 in all—Males, 74,050; Females, 85,849; figures which at the present Census indicate an increase, and that of both sexes in the Mainland population of 12·40 per cent. and 10·97 per cent. respectively; but a decrease in the Insular population at a rate of 1·04 per cent. in the case of the Males, and of 4·18 per cent. in that of the Females (Appendix, Tables II. and VII.). A like condition has occurred for several decennia—in fact since 1851—e.g., the rate of decline of the Insular population during the ten years, 1881-1891, i.e. at the Census, 1891, was in the case of the Males 2·41 per cent., and of the Females 0·88 per cent.; at the previous Census, 1881, the corresponding decrease was 1·63 per cent. and 2·08 per cent. for the respective sexes. The decrease does not occur in every Island, in some the population is increasing, as may be seen on referring to Table XII., p. 286, “The Inhabited Islands of Scotland,” where, under those Counties which have an Insular population, information is given as to the number of Houses, Persons, &c., for each Island at the Censuses of 1891 and 1901. The Counties chiefly referred to are Shetland, Orkney, Ross and Cromarty, Argyll, and Bute.

Population.

Appendix Table III. shows the population of Scotland Grouped as living in Towns, Villages, and Rural Districts at the Censuses 1891 and 1901, giving the decennial increase or decrease in the case of each, as also its rate. The total Town population at the present Census is 3,120,241, which is an increase of 488,943, or 18·68 per cent. over what it was at 1891; in the Villages 466,053 souls were enumerated, an increase of but 217, or 0·05 per cent. in excess of the corresponding population at 1891; the Inhabitants of the Rural Districts amounting to 885,809, which is 42,704, or 4·90 per cent. below what it was at 1891. The last two columns of the Table show the percentage of the total population living in each Group—thus at 1891 Census 65·37 per cent. of the Inhabitants of Scotland resided in the Towns; at the present Census the corresponding ratio is 69·77 per cent.; in the Villages at 1891 there was 11·57 per cent. of the total population, at 1901 there was 10·42 per cent., and while 23·06 per cent. were located in the Rural Districts at the former Census but 19·81 per cent. is the proportion at the present one.

In Table XI., p. 262, information will be found as to the Families, Houses, Population, &c., in every Town and Village in each County in Scotland at the present Census, and as the corresponding was at that of 1891.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE POPULATION OVER AREA IN SCOTLAND.

The area of land in Scotland is 19,069,500 acres, or about 29,796 square miles. Area and Population.

Table XXII. gives the distribution of the population over this area, and from it is seen that at the Census there was 150 persons to each square mile in the country, that the number of acres to each person was 4·3 (Inland Waters, Tidal Rivers, and Foreshores not included), and that the proximity or distance from person to person was 154 linear yards.

Those rates vary much in each Division and County; thus in the North-Western Division, the most sparsely populated part of Scotland, there were 23 persons to each square mile, and 28 acres to each person. In the Northern Division there were 31 persons to each square mile, and 20·8 acres to each inhabitant. In the Southern Division there were 62 persons to a square mile, and 10·3 acres to each person. In the West-Midland Division there were 87 persons to a square mile, and 7·4 acres to each person. In the North-Eastern Division there were 127 persons to each square mile, and 5·0 acres to each person. In the East-Midland Division there were 166 persons per square mile, and 3·9 acres per inhabitant. In the South-Eastern Division there were 363 persons to each square mile, and 1·8 acre per person; and in the South-Western Division, the most densely populated, there were 827 persons to each square mile, and but 0·8 of an acre for every inhabitant, if evenly distributed over it.

The County most sparsely populated is Sutherland, where there are but 11 persons to each square mile; the most densely so being Lanark, where in a corresponding area there would be 1523 individuals.

In four Counties the population does not allow of 40 persons to each square mile, viz.:—Sutherland, 11; Inverness, 21; Argyll, 24; and Ross and Cromarty, 25.

Six Counties had between 40 and 60 persons to each square mile, viz.:—Peebles, 43; Kirkcudbright, 44; Caithness and Perth, each 49; Shetland, 51; and Nairn, 57.

Five Counties had between 60 and 80 persons to each square mile, viz.:—Berwick and Wigtown, each with 67; Dumfries, with 68; Roxburgh, with 73; and Orkney, with 76.

Five Counties had between 80 and 100 persons per square mile, viz.:—Kinross, 85; Bute, 86; Selkirk, 88; Elgin or Moray, 94; and Banff, 98.

Three Counties had between 100 and 200 persons to each square mile, viz.:—Kincardine, 107; Haddington, 145; and Aberdeen, 154.

One County had between 200 and 300 as before, viz.:—Ayr, 225.

Two Counties had between 300 and 400 persons to a square mile, viz.:—Stirling, 315; and Forfar, 325.

Two Counties had between 400 and 500 per square mile, viz.:—Fife, 434; and Dumbarton, 463.

Two Counties had between 500 and 600 persons to a square mile, viz.:—Linlithgow, 547; and Clackmannan, 587.

Three Counties had over 600 persons to each square mile, viz.:—Renfrew, 1128; Edinburgh, 1835; and Lanark, 1523.

Temporarily
Absent and Present.

On the present occasion the number of those temporarily absent from their homes, or temporarily present in, and therefore enumerated at other places, are:—Present—Males, 14,461; Females, 12,918; total, 27,374; and Absent—Males, 14,191; Females, 11,669; total, 25,860.

SEXES OF THE POPULATION.

Distribution and Proportion of Sexes.

The number of the inhabitants of Scotland at the date of the Census is 4,472,103, of whom 2,173,755 are of the male sex, and 2,298,348 of the female, the latter exceeding the former by 124,593, and giving the proportion 105·7 females to every 100 males, a lower proportion than has occurred at any previous Census. The highest rate was 118·5 to 100 at the Census of 1811, since when it has steadily fallen. (Appendix, Table IV.)

In the Eight Divisions the proportion of males and females varies, the greatest difference between the sexes occurring in the East-Midland Division, where to every 100 males there are 114·99 females. The proportion of males to females in the West-Midland and South-Western Divisions are almost equal, viz., 100·89 females in the former, and 100·88 in the latter to every 100 of the other sex. Table VI.

In the Counties the proportions vary still more, from 126·91 the highest proportion of females to every 100 males in Shetland, to Linlithgow in which the lowest occurs, where for every 100 males there are but 86·55 females. In three Counties the female population is below that of the male, viz.:—Lanark with 98·67 females to every 100 males, Stirling with 95·58 females to every 100 males, and Linlithgow with 86·55 in like proportion. At last Census these Counties were in the same position as to this, and on the present occasion the proportion of Females to Males is in each below what it was in 1891. Linlithgow has shown this disparity in the proportion of the sexes since 1861 Census, when there were 94·4 Females to every 100 Males; at 1871 there were 96·4 Females to every 100 Males; at 1881 there were 91·29 Females to every 100 Males; at 1891 there were 88·96 Females to every 100 Males, and at the present Census there are 86·55 Females to every 100 Males. Five Counties had between 100·00 and 105·00 Females to every 100 Males, viz.:—Dumbarton with 101·18 Females to every 100 Males, Ayr with 103·14 in like proportion, Argyll with 103·56, Kincardine with 103·81, and Orkney with 104·60. Eight Counties had between 105·00 and 110·00 Females to every 100 Males, viz.:—Haddington 105·24, Sutherland 105·27, Inverness 105·90, Renfrew 106·26, Fife 106·17, Kinross, 106·89, Berwick 109·33, and Banff 109·43. Fourteen Counties had between 110·00 and 120·00 Females to every 100 Males, viz.:—Kirkcudbright 110·01, Aberdeen 110·20, Nairn 110·44, Caithness 110·74, Clackmannan, 110·79, Ross and Cromarty, 110·88, Dumfries 111·20, Peebles, 111·23, Edinburgh 112·10, Elgin 112·31, Perth 112·34, Wigton 114·01, Roxburgh 118·37, and Selkirk 118·88. Three Counties had over 120·00 Females to every 100 Males, viz.:—Forfar 122·47, Bute 123·42, and Shetland 126·91.

When the population is considered according to its occupying the Mainland of Scotland or the Islands, much difference exists in this proportion, as in the former there are 105·50 Females to every 100 Males, while in the latter—Insular—it is 112·28 to every 100. (Table VII., Appendix.)

Appendix Table VIII. gives the number and proportion of Males and Females in the Towns, Villages, and Rural Districts, where it is seen that in the Towns at 1901 there are 107·45 Females to every 100 Males, in the Villages the proportion being 108·71 Females to every 100 Males, while in the Rural Districts the sexes are more nearly equal, viz.:—100·93 Females to every 100 Males.

GAELIC-SPEAKING POPULATION.

Gaelic-speaking

Appendix Table XV. gives the number and proportion of those in Scotland in its Divisions and Counties who speak Gaelic only or both Gaelic and English, and on this occasion children under three years of age are not included. Throughout the country, 28,106, or 0·63 per cent., of the inhabitants spoke Gaelic only, while in addition 202,700, or 4.53 per cent., spoke both Gaelic and English. The largest numbers of persons speaking Gaelic are found in the North-Western and West-Midland Divisions of the country, in the former of which 23,893, or 14.34 per cent., spoke Gaelic only, and 82,573, or 49.58 per cent., both Gaelic and English, and in the latter 3357, or 0.96 per cent., spoke Gaelic only, and 42,815, or 12.14 per cent., spoke both languages. In the Southern Division but 495, or 0.26 per cent., of the population were able to speak Gaelic. As to the Counties—in Ross and Cromarty 12,171, or 15.92 per cent., of the population speak Gaelic only, and 39,292, or 51.39 per cent., both English and Gaelic, in Inverness 11,722, or 13.01 per cent., speak Gaelic only, while 43,281, or 48.03 per cent., both Gaelic and English. In these two Counties are included the Western Isles, Lewis, Harris, &c., in which the greater portion of the inhabitants speak either Gaelic alone, or Gaelic with their English. In Sutherland 469, or 2.19 per cent., of the population speak Gaelic only, and 14,083, or 65.68 per cent., both Gaelic and English. Argyll follows with 3313, or 4.49 per cent., of its inhabitants speaking Gaelic alone, and 34,428, or 46.75 per cent., both languages. The Counties in which the lowest proportion of their inhabitants speak Gaelic are Shetland, Orkney, Kincardine, Berwick, Selkirk, and Dumfries.

Information as to the Gaelic-speaking population in smaller communities, e.g. Parishes, Towns, Villages, &c., will be found in various Tables throughout the volume.

PARLIAMENTARY BURGHES, DISTRICTS OF BURGHES, AND COUNTIES.

In Scotland there are 71 Constituencies represented in the House of Parliamentary Commons by 72 members. The Parliamentary Districts of Counties return 39 members, in four cases two Counties being conjoined by the return of a Parliamentary representative. The Burghs of Aberdeen, Dundee, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Greenock, Paisley, and Perth together return 18 members, while the 13 Districts of Burghs return a like number 13 (one each), and the Universities, 2, i.e., in all 72.

The population of Scotland is 4,472,103, and, not including the two members for the Universities, there is one representative in Parliament for every 63,887 of the population.

In the Districts of Counties there is a total population of 2,425,764 represented by 39 members, i.e. one for every 62,199 of the population.

In the Parliamentary Burghs and Districts of Burghs together, there is a total population of 2,036,483, and returning 31 members, there is one for every 65,693 of their inhabitants. In the seven Parliamentary Burghs alone, which return 18 members, there is a total population of 1,403,143, which gives one representative in every 77,592, while the 13 Districts of Burghs, which return one member each, have a population of 633,338, giving one member for every 48,718 of the inhabitants.

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN CIVIL AND PARLIAMENTARY COUNTIES.

By the enactments of the Boundary Commission or Secretary for Scotland many changes have been made as to the boundaries of Parishes and Civil Counties. Those alterations could not, however, affect in any way the boundaries of Parliamentary Counties or Districts, and it was found necessary to enter fully into the subject and distinguish those parts of Parishes which had been transferred from one County to another by the above Commission, and at the same time to indicate those parts—it may be of the same—which could not be in like manner altered as to their position in a Parliamentary County or District. This is done in Table V., p. 190.

PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS.

Appendix Table XVI gives the number of Persons in Public Institutions in Scotland on the night of the Census, and is so arranged as to show the number of those who were Inmates for some special reason, as also of the Officials connected with the same and their Families, &c. Thus, of Invalids there were 7,940 Persons (males 4,067, females 3873) lying sick in Hospitals; 13,194 Persons (males 6482, females 6712) were confined in Lunatic Asylums and such like; 183 Blind Folk and 426 Deaf and Dumb were in Institutions for the same; Poorhouses sheltered 11,797 Persons (males 6218, females 5579); Prison and Police Cells had 3104 Occupants (males 2359, females 745), while 5217 Young Persons were detained in Reformatories and Industrial Schools (males 3802, females 1415); Licensed Lodging-Houses accommodated 21,466 Persons (males 19,098, females 2368); and 8,969 Persons (3831 males and 5138 females) took advantage of and shelter in other Institutions for the Healthy; 5768 Persons (4584 males and 1184 females) were in Barracks, of whom 3933 were Soldiers, and 1026 males and 9 females were on board H.M. Ships the same night; while the Mercantile Marine was represented by 8700 men and 121 females on board vessels in Scotch waters. Persons not in Houses, but living in Barns, Sheds, Caravans, &c., numbered 4023 (males 2441, females 1582).

The County and Parish in which every Public Institution is situated, with information corresponding to that given above will be found in Table XIII., p. 294.

INFIRMITIES.

BLIND.

Blind.

Table XIV. in Abstract show there are in all Scotland 3253 Blind Persons (males 1666, females 1587), of whom 493 (males 257, females 235) were so from childhood. Of the total number, 183 are in various Institutions, leaving 3070 living at home. There is 1 Blind Person in every 1375 of the Population, and at the rate of 73 per 100,000 Inhabitants. Among the males alone, it is 1 in every 1305, and among the females 1 in every 1448, or in every 100,000 of the males 77 are blind, 69 being the corresponding proportion among the females. Appendix Table XVIII. gives the rate per 1,000,000 of the Population in each County in Scotland, and which varies from 1609 in Ross and Cromarty, 1598 in Shetland, and 1432 in Inverness, the highest, to 385 in Selkirk, 380 in Linlithgow, and 97 in like ratio in Nairn.

At the last Census the total Blind in Scotland numbered 2797 (males 1417, females 1380), or 1 in every 1439 of the Inhabitants.

DEAF AND DUMB.

Deaf and Dumb.

The total number of Deaf and Dumb in Scotland at the Census was 2638 (males 1410, females 1228) and of those 1074 were so from childhood (males 568, females 506). Deducting the 426 who were in Institutions, there are 2212 living at home—Table XIV. There is 1 Deaf and Dumb Person in every 1695 of the Inhabitants or 59 per 100,000. Among the males alone there is 1 in every 1542, and among the females 1 in every 1872, or in every 100,000 of the males 65 are Deaf and Dumb, 53 being the corresponding proportion among the females.

Of the Deaf and Dumb 211 (males 130, females 81) are stated to be Dumb only, and of those 86 were so from childhood. Over and above the 2638 returned as Deaf and Dumb, there are 1118 (the males 442, the females 676) returned as Deaf only, 119 of those being so from childhood. There is 1 Deaf Person in every 4000 of the Population, or 25 to each 100,000 of the Inhabitants.

The proportion of Deaf and Dumb in each County is seen in Appendix Table XVIII., varying from 1030 per 1,000,000 in Shetland, 933 in Sutherland, the highest, to 178 per 1,000,000 in Kirkcudbright, and 54 in like ratio in Nairn.

At the last Census the total number of Deaf and Dumb in Scotland was 2125 (the males 1195, the females 930), or 1 in every 1894 of the Inhabitants. The number of Deaf alone was 741 (males 325, females 416).

LUNATICS, IMBECILES, AND FEEBLE-MINDED.

Lunatics, Imbeciles, &c.

The return made as to Lunatics, under the heading Public Institutions, gives no information as to those living elsewhere, but in Table XIV. of Abstracts there is the total number of those afflicted with Lunacy, Imbecility, or Feeble-mindedness in Scotland, and in each County, and whether from childhood or not. Of such there are in Scotland 20,291, viz., Lunatics 13,668 (the males 6468, the females 7200) and Imbeciles, &c., 6623 (males 3246, females 3377), and deducting the 13,194 who are in Institutions there is left 7097 Lunatics, Imbeciles, and Feeble-minded Persons living at home or mayhap boarded out. Of the total number 1490 (Lunatics 109, Imbeciles, &c., 1381) are stated to have suffered from childhood.

As to the relative proportion of Lunatics to the total population there is one to every 328 (Males 1 to every 336, Females 1 to every 319), or at the rate of 3056 per 1,000,000 of the inhabitants. Of Imbeciles, &c., there is 1 in every 676 (Males 1 to every 669, Females 1 to every 680), or at the rate of 1481 per 1,000,000.

An exact comparison perhaps cannot be made as to the number of persons thus afflicted at the two Censuses 1891 and 1901, inasmuch as at the former the answer in the Householders Schedule was requested as to whether Lunatic, Imbecile, or Idiot, while on this occasion it was as to whether Lunatic, Imbecile, or Feeble-minded; but at 1891 the number of Lunatics in Scotland was 10,445 (the males 4918, the females 5527), together in the proportion of 1 in every 385 of the population, or at a rate of 2594 in every 1,000,000. Of Imbeciles or Idiots there was 5017 persons (males 2506, females 2511), in the proportion of 1 in every 802 of population, or 1246 in every 1,000,000.

Appendix Table XVII. gives the proportion of Lunatics and of Imbeciles or Feeble-minded persons per 1,000,000 of the population of Scotland, and of each County; but as in 20 of the 33 Counties in Scotland there are Public Institutions in which Lunatics, Imbeciles, and Feeble-minded Persons are living, vide Table XIV., p. 312, the proportions cannot be considered as affording a true comparison of those in one County with those in another. Lunatics as returned are in greatest ratio in Dumfries, 9963 per 1,000,000; Dumbarton 7597; Inverness 7025; the lowest ratio being Peebles with 66, Clackmannan with 31, and Nairn with 22 per 1,000,000; there being none in Selkirk. Imbeciles, &c., are in greatest proportion in Shetland, 8728 per 1,000,000, in Kinross 3724, in Sutherland 3498, and in Inverness 3440, the lowest proportion occurring in Lanark 812, and Nairn 248.

There are 117 males and 111 females, 228 in all, who suffer from a combination of the above infirmities.

FOREIGNERS.

The total number of Foreigners in Scotland at the Census is 32,637, of whom Foreigners 14,448 are males, and 8,179 females. Russian Nationality stands pre-eminently to the fore, there being 10,373 of such; Italians follow with a total of 4051, and Germans with a total of 3232. Table XV., p. 316, gives information as to the number of each nationality enumerated in each County and in fifteen Municipal or Police Burghs with populations of 30,000 and upwards. On the present occasion the numbers of Foreigners have much increased to what they were at 1891, the total number at that date being 8510 (males 5999, females 2511).

ROOMS WITH WINDOWS, AND PROPORTION OF PERSONS AND FAMILIES INHABITING HOUSES OF DIFFERENT SIZES.

Appendix Table XI. gives the number of Families of different sizes occupying Sizes of Houses, the number of Persons in each Family with the percentage of Families of different sizes to the total Families in Scotland, as at the Censuses 1891 and 1901. The total number of Families with between two and twelve souls in each have increased during the decennium, but the proportion of those containing three, four, five, and six persons are alone, at the present Census, above the corresponding at 1891. Similar information on these points is to be found in Table XVI., p. 325, as to the number of Families of different sizes in the Burghal and Extra-Burghal Groups in each County in Scotland, and in Town and Village and Rural Groups, as also for fifteen Municipal or Police Burghs with populations of 30,000 and upwards; and Appendix Table XII. is computed for the purpose of allowing a comparison being made as to the proportion of Families of different sizes residing at the present Census in the Burghal and Extra-Burghal, and Town and Rural Groups. On comparing the latter (Town and Rural) it is found that a somewhat larger proportion of Families of one person live in the Rural than in the Town groups, but that Families of from two to six persons in each are in greater proportion in the Towns than in the Rural. After this the proportion of larger Families, almost without exception, is greater in the Rural than in the Town Groups.

Appendix Table XIII. gives the total number and the proportion thereof of Families occupying Houses of different sizes, as determined by the number of Windowed Rooms, in Scotland at 1871, 1881, 1891, and 1901. It is there seen the proportion of Families occupying one Room only is below what it was formerly, 17·61 per cent. of the whole being thus lodged at the present Census as against 22·16 per cent. at 1891, the ratio at 1881 and 1871 being still greater. It may be noted that on the present occasion there are but 41 One-Roomed Houses in Scotland having no Window in which Persons live, as compared with 398 at 1891, 492 at 1881, and 1515 at 1871. The proportion living in Two Rooms does not differ greatly from what it was at 1891, being 39·89 per cent. at the present Census and 39·11 per cent. at the former. Over three-fourths, or 75·90 per cent., of the Families in Scotland accommodate themselves in Houses of three Rooms or fewer, as compared with 77·68 per cent. at 1891, and a general condition of betterment is, as a rule, apparent on contrasting the proportions living in larger Houses at the two Censuses. Further information upon these points may be found under Table XVI., p. 325, for the Burghal and Extra-Burghal Groups in each County, for the Town, Village, and Rural Groups in each County, and for fifteen Municipal or Police Burghs with Populations of 30,000 and upwards from which Appendix Table XIV. is arranged, giving the number and proportion of Families living in Houses of different sizes in the Burghal and Extra-Burghal, and in the Town and Rural Groups in Scotland at 1901; and on comparing the two latter it is seen that while 20·05 per cent. of the Families in Towns are accommodated in Houses of One Room, but 11·82 per cent. are so in the Rural Groups; and in Houses of Two Rooms 41·39 per cent. of the Families in Towns live compared with 36·37 per cent. in the Rural. On the other hand a larger percentage of Families occupy Houses of Three Rooms and upwards in the Rural than in the Town Groups.

NUMBER AND PROPORTION OF PERSONS IN FAMILIES, HOUSES, AND ROOMS, OF FAMILIES TO A HOUSE, AS ALSO OF ROOMS TO EACH HOUSE.

Appendix Table XXIII. gives the population, the number of Families, Inhabited Houses, and Rooms occupied by the inhabitants of Scotland, its Divisions and Counties, and indicates that 4·62 is the average proportion of Persons to each Family throughout the country; that there are 1·04 Families to each House; that there are 4·82 Persons in each House, with 3·26 Rooms to each House, 3·13 Rooms to each Family, and 1·48 Persons to each Room. When compared with the corresponding ratios at 1891 Census, the improvement then occurring is found to be continued, inasmuch as while there are now more Persons to each Family (4·59 in 1891), there are fewer Families to a House (1·07 in 1891), fewer Persons to each House (4·92 in 1891), but more Rooms to each House (3·24 in 1891), more Rooms to each Family (3·02 in 1891), and fewer Persons to each Room (1·52 in 1891).

The Northern portion of the country has a distinct advantage over the Southern in these respects.

As to the Counties, Linlithgow shows to least advantage, inasmuch as here, while there are 5·13 Persons to each Family and 1·04 Families to each House, there are 5·32 Persons to a House, but 2·67 Rooms to each House, and 2·58 Rooms to each Family, the proportion of Persons to each Room being 1·99. Lanark stands next with 4·83 Persons to a Family, and 1·04 Families to a House, 5·02 Persons to each House, but 2·58 Rooms to a House, and 2·49

House Accommodation.

Average sizes of Families and Houses.

Rooms to a Family, 1·94 Persons occupying each Room. The Counties which show best in the way of housing of the inhabitants are Nairn, Bute, and Kirkcudbright:—in the former the Persons to a Family are 4·24, the Families to a House 1·13, Persons to a House 4·78, Rooms to a House 5·03, Rooms to a Family 4·46, and Persons to a Room 0·95, the ratios in Bute and Kirkcudbright being much the same as those just given. The largest number of Persons to each House occur in Renfrew 4·93, Ayr 4·94, Lanark 5·02, Stirling and Dumbarton 5·06, Shetland 5·19, and Linlithgow 5·32; the smallest number of Rooms to each House occur in Clackmannan 2·99; in Forfar 2·95; in Shetland and in Renfrew 2·82; in Linlithgow 2·67; and in Lanark 2·58. The highest proportion of Persons to a Room are found in Shetland, 1·84; and as before stated in Lanark 1·94; and Linlithgow 1·99; the lowest being found in Bute 0·97, in Nairn 0·95, and in Kirkcudbright 0·94.

Appendix Table IX gives like information for the Population when considered as dwelling in Towns, Villages, or Rural Districts, and the corresponding numbers and proportions are also given as they stood at 1891. In the Towns the average number of Persons to a Family at present is 4·60 as compared with 4·52 in 1891; in the Villages the corresponding ratios are 4·46 and 4·45, and in the Rural Districts 4·81 and 4·89—the proportion for all Scotland being 4·62 in 1901 as against 4·59 in 1891. The Families to a House are in the Towns 1·05 at present as against 1·08 in 1891, in the Villages 1·05 as compared with 1·08, and in the Rural Districts 1·02 now and 1·03 in 1891—the ratio for all Scotland being 1·04 in 1901 and 1·07 in 1891. While 4·62 Persons was the average number to a House in the Towns in 1901 it was 4·90 in 1891, in the Villages 4·68 as against 4·80, and in the Rural Districts 4·93 compared with 5·05—the same for Scotland being 4·82 at present, 4·92 in 1891. Again, while there were 1·59 Persons to each Room in the Towns at the last Census, there were 1·62 in 1891, in the Villages 1·44 now, 1·55 in 1891, and in the Rural Districts 1·21 as compared with 1·28 in 1891—the same for Scotland being 1·48 and 1·52 respectively. The number of Rooms to a House in 1901 was in the Towns 3·04, being 3·03 at 1891, in the Villages 3·24 as compared with 3·09, and in the Rural Districts 4·07 against 3·95 at 1891—the proportion for all Scotland being 3·26 and 3·24.

We are engaged in the preparation of Tables relative to the Ages of the Population, their Conjugal Condition, their Birthplaces, their Occupations, and other particulars, which will be laid before Parliament and published as speedily as circumstances will allow. Preparation of further Tables in progress.

We have the honour to be,

Note.—This table may be used either horizontally or vertically, according to the information wished to be derived from it. It gives the class of houses which furnish the material compared, and the number of such families in each class. Thus, it is made up to show how the 104,134 families who had such an opinion as to the family, by putting this eye along the horizontal column, how the figure 6 in the first column column, which shows the number of persons in a family, was ascertained that 1,466 families lived in single rooms, and 1,466 lived in houses of two rooms, that 1,056 lived in houses of three rooms, and how many of these had one family, two families, etc., in each family.

Note.—The Table may be read either horizontally or vertically, and due to the information wanted to be derived from it. If read in horizontal columns, it exhibits the class of houses which Families of certain sizes occupied, and the number of such Families in each class of houses. Thus, if we wish to know how the 391,151 Families were lodged who had each six persons in the Family, by passing the eye along the horizontal column from the figure 6 to the first vertical column, which shows the number of Families in a Family, we ascertain that 1,462 Families had six persons without Windows, that 4,867 had six persons in a Family with one Window, and how many of these had two Windows, two Persons, two Persons, etc., to each Family.
